LEAF Charity: Life Encounter Asia Foundation (LEAF) was founded by Dutch couple Dick and Johanna de Koning, who have been living and working in Thailand for more than 20 years. With this foundation, they give underprivileged people a second chance to achieve their dreams using an integrated approach of micro-financing, education, and coaching. In other words, LEAF gives small communities (families, tribes) a starting amount, but also provides education to help these communities learn how to spend the money wisely. By building a relationship with these communities through on-site coaching, LEAF can ensure that they continue to make wise decisions for their families long-term, both on a personal and financial level.

Example: Bee's family in the North of Thailand

Bee's family members are farmers, but they did not have money to buy tools to continue their farm. LEAF provided the money for their first two farming machines, and is now helping the family to set up a plan of how to become self-sustained. LEAF helped Bee to get an education as a school teacher, so she can make a basic income for the family while her husband works the land. LEAF continues to support this family by visiting their farm regularly and coaching them how to manage their finances and keep the family-work life balanced.
